No Change Made At Present In Lac La Biche Closing Day

LAC LA BICHE — The chief topic at the meeting of the Chamber of Commerce held recently was the question of closing day for the Town's business places. A letter had been circulated among the businessmen asking for an expression of opinions as to the best day for closing and it was hoped that the results would be in the hands of the secretary so that a firm decision could be made.

Although the number of letters returned was disappointing, they favored a return to Thursday afternoon closing.

In an open discussion period, many opinions were aired and the meeting finally went on record as recommending Thursday afternoon closing. However, President Harry Lobay pointed out that this was only a recommendation.

Several members spoke in favor of keeping open six days a week. Others said the difficulty of hiring help for the six day week presented too great a problem.

When the meeting closed, no definite action as to closing day had been taken. With the Christmas season approaching, the majority agreed that it would not be in the best interests of the businessmen or the customer to introduce any changes till at least after the new year.

The ever popular subject of roads was discussed briefly, and disappointment was expressed with the slow progress of the link from Lac La Biche to Highway 36. The secretary was asked to write a letter requesting that everything possible be done to complete the short stretch remaining to connect Lac La Biche with the pavement to the south.

A motion was also passed asking that a request be made to keep the Forestry winter road open to McMurray during the coming winter.

Twenty members and three visitors were in attendance at the meeting which was chaired by President Harry Lobay.

LAC LA BICHE—The guest speaker at the Nov. Chamber of Commerce meeting held in the banquet room of the York Hotel, was Lyle B. Goff. Mr. Goff, who is branch manager for Parke, Davis & Co., of Edmonton, spoke on behalf of the Canadian Pharmaceutical Manufacturers' Association. Interesting and enlightening figures were given to shown that the profits made by manufacturers of drugs were not as high as is commonly supposed. For instance, the total taxes included in the retail price to consumers is greater than the profit made by the manufacturer.

Mr. Goff also impressed the gathering with statistics showing some of the tremendous advances made in curbing diseases which a few years ago took a much higher toll of lives than they do today.

Publisher Appoints Magda Czvetko Office Manager At Sun Publishing

By JENNIFER BOLCH

"I hope you can count to ten," T. W. Pue, publisher of Sun Publishing Company, smiled in March, 1957, as he choose Magda Czvetko from a group of Hungarian refugees to work in the Accounts Receivable department at Sun.

She certainly could. In fact, she did so well at it that she was put in charge of the Accounts Receivable department after only four months.

Just last week Mrs. Czvetko, known to everyone as simply as "Magda," was appointed Office Manager for Sun Publishing.

"I appreciated Mr. and Mrs. Pue's confidence in me when they did not know me at all," says Magda of her employment in 1957. Prior to her arrival in Edmonton from Austria, she worked for a machine manufacturer in Hungary.

Magda, who became a Canadian citizen last May, has done "just about everything" at the Sun from folding papers in the mailing room.

Founders Aviation Council To Calgary In Small Planes

Leaders, working to form an Alberta Aviation Council, and Edmonton newsmen flew to Calgary on Nov. 12 for a supper meeting and were back in Edmonton five hours after original take-off time.

The flight was made in seven small craft. The object, to publicize the Foundation Convention to be held in the Macdonald Hotel Nov. 23 and 24 and also to show the general public that flying has become big business in Alberta.

Those organizing the trip proved their point when it was shown that most on board the planes had done a day's work before they left at 4 p.m. and all were home before 10 p.m.

British Columbia has had an Aviation Council since 1936 although it became inactive during the war years. The Council receives co-operation from both the provincial and federal governments and is given a provincial grant for the work it does in promoting tourism. The Council assists pilots and airmen all over the North American Continent.

Flying today is one of the most important links in the national transportation system. There are more flights daily from airports than all others—and it's growing steadily. In Alberta there has been the lack of an organization that can truly represent the aviation interests of the province—from the private flyer and aircraft owner—owners of fleets and suppliers—key officials at airports and organizations—to city administrators and community officials. The Alberta Aviation Council can fill this need. There are 800 aircraft registered with the Department of Transport in Alberta. There is a need for one central united voice to speak for the aircraft industry.

The Council will be a combined effort of Northern and Southern Alberta and is receiving help from local Chambers of Commerce, Boards of Trade and municipal councils. It would be in a position to make representation to governments through co-ordinated policies, assist in the development and improvements of landing facilities, put out circulars and bulletins on affairs and regulations of the aviation industry and promote safe flying through improvement of navigation facilities.

Anyone can attend the convention, registration is $20. Membership in the Aviation Council is $10.

About nine o'clock, Eddy Pruss called Mr. Gregoire to report something was wrong with the light switch in their home which was in darkness. Mr. and Mrs. Gregoire hurried in to find the cause of the trouble and when the light was snapped on, their surprise was complete to find the room full of their friends.

A most enjoyable evening followed. The popular couple were presented with an ash stand and a TV lamp.

Mrs. Gregoire was honored by several groups before her departure. She has taught Grade 7 for a number of years in Lac la Biche and her class arranged a party for her in their room. She was presented with a travel alarm, a necklace and a unique ash tray containing a picture of Lac la Biche.

The Homemaker

By B. M. McCUTCHEON, District Home Economist, Westlock

YOUR EXTENSION HOME ECONOMIST

I often wonder if the readers of this column realize that I am a real person who lives or works in your community. You may not recognize me when we meet on the street, but picture that heads this column may help.

B. McCutcheon

At the beginning of the year I summarized my work for last year and will do the same again. The purpose of this column is to acquaint you with some of the many services available to you, free of charge, through the Extension Service of the Department of Agriculture. Incidentally, I want to unburden my thoughts and make a few suggestions. Some of the women's groups have already approached me. Dates and topics have been chosen. FWUA's and WI's and Co-op Guilds are among those who are familiar with this service. I am available to address community and church groups as well as Home and School Associations or assist with a career program.

Perhaps you would prefer a demonstration of an interesting craft or a sewing course. The latter could include instruction at various levels from beginning sewers to tailoring and simple design.

On an individual basis assistance is available for food and nutrition problems, buymanship, home management, sewing and fabric as well as home decoration information. Address your letters or phone calls to the undersigned. Should you wish a home visit do the same.

Home planning and remodelling are time consuming and may require the services of our Home Designing Specialist, Miss Dianne Hammer. Please do not wait until the house is plastered before seeking help for an efficient kitchen arrangement. That should have been done on a scale plan when the floor plan was drawn.

For unusual or difficult problems which cannot be answered from the local files and library, there are the services of specialists in clothing, nutrition and home management.

I would like to meet more of the young homemakers. Do not be alarmed if I come knocking on your door. I am more concerned with your ability to cope with a husband, a young family, a home and a community than with your ability to scrub floors or windows.

I am at the Provincial Building at Barrhead every Thursday — phone number is Barrhead 4-2058. My office phone number at the Provincial Building in Westlock is 342-3575. Requests for my services in the Lac la Biche area may be left with Mr. Fred Strashok, District Agriculturist at Lac la Biche.

Straw And Stubble Can Ensure Future Productivity Of Land

Combine straw and stubble, properly incorporated into the soil will ensure the productivity of land for many years to come. In addition to supplying valuable plant mutrients, straw replenishes depleated organic matter.

A. W. Goettel, Assistant Supervisor of Soils and Weed Control with the Alberta Department of Agriculture, says good physicial and chemical composition is maintained in the soil by properly incorporated straw. It improves the water percolation, holding capacity and areation of the soil as well as "mellowing" hard compact soils and providing "body" in light sandy soils.

Since organic matter or fibre is rapidly depleted with repeated cultivation, most agricultural soils in Alberta have a medium to low level of organic content. The addition of organic matter in the form of barnyard manure, green manure and straw will greatly improve this condition. One research group indicates that straw is worth $10.00 an acre from the point of view or organic matter alone.

Regarding plant nutrients, Mr. Goettel says wheat yielding 50 bushels per acre produces straw that contains about 25 pounds of nitrogen, 4 pounds of phosphorus and 20 pounds of potassium. At present fertilizer prices the value of these nutrients is about $4.50 an acre. If this stubble was burned, most of the nitrogen and phosphorus would be lost and the value of the remaining nutrients would probably be about $1.00 an acre. In other words, a farmer who burns his stubble loses more than $3.00 an acre in plant nutrients plus the priceless value of the straw as organic matter.

Construction Crew Completes 8 Miles On Vilna Highway

VILNA — The construction crew working on the Vilna-Lac la Biche highway is apparently contented with the short piece of road that the weather permitted them to do this summer. They did only about eight miles through the entire summer.

Among their many difficulties was a hay meadow which was filled two feet deep with. This, on moss, had to be scraped off and a road bed filled over. Clay had to be hauled in from various farms near the road.

The road now stretches from Pine Knoll school to a mile past the Steve Doktor farm. The Lac la Biche side has progressed to within 18 miles of Doktor's farm. But this is the ugliest part of the road and obviously cannot be finished this year, as was expected.

Larry Ramsbottom Death Accidental

ELK POINT — An inquest in the death of Larry Ramsbottom was held on Wednesday, October 31 in the town hall in Elk Point.

The coroner was Dr. K. C. Miller The jury consisting of E. Vaughan R. Tredger, M. Loftus, L. Sumpton, S. Andrishak and Steve Ewoniuk ruled the death accidental.

Larry died on the morning o October 18.

Fire Department Proves Efficient

REDWATER — The speed and efficiency of the Redwater Volunteer Fire Department was shown on the afternoon of Tuesday, Nov. 6, when Mrs. Jud Cook arrived home to find great quantities of smoke coming from her house. She immediately ran next door to ask her neighbor to phone the fire department and unbelievably the fire truck arrived before the alarm had been sounded.

Because of the density of the smoke, masks were required before the firemen could enter the house. Once in the building they found that it was the chesterfield that was on fire and they quickly removed it. No great amount of other fire damage was done but the smoke did a great deal of harm to other furnishings.

Cause of the fire has not been determined.

800 Persons Attend Housewarming For Three Local Families

VILNA — The entire north eastern part of Alberta seemed to turn out for a huge banquet held in honor of the Michael Shysh, Pete David and William Romanko families. What started out originally as a housewarming party finally became a full-course banquet held in the Grand Hall with music by Radomsky.

About 800 people were present. Among these were many relatives of the families concerned. All three families had recently built fine homes in Vilna and served in many public capacities. Their parents in many cases came to Vilna from other areas, and hence the number of visitors.

Music by Radomsky is the sweetest story ever told. His group has a stiring, ballad style routine that puts pepper into the old-timers' shoes.

Many valuable gifts were presented and fine speeches told. It has been said that at Vilna, when people asked how much food to bring to a banquet, the standard answer is "Bring too much, then we'll know there will be enough."

Tractor, Combine, Truck, Car Mishaps Plague Area

Waskatenau has had its share of accidents lately. The first was Henry Martin, who was burned on the arms and face in a tractor mishap.

The second was a truck, combine accident a short distance west of Waskatenau. When Mr. Yakemchuk was moving his combine from one farm to another, he was hit from behind by a big semi-trailer truck.

The combine is a complete loss, but Mr. Yakemchuk escaped with a few bruises and hurt ribs. He was hospitalized for a few days in St. Joseph's Hospital in Radway.

The truck driver was stunned, but uninjured.

A week later, east of Waskatenau, a car ran into the back of a semi-trailer truck. The driver of the car was killed.

The causes of accidents are many; improper lights or clearance lights or reflectors, too much alcohol, everybody in too much of a hurry, and yet every day these little things lead to loss of life and time, and, of course, money. Each should take a good look around vehicles before starting on a trip on the roads or highways and- at all times, be courteous, cautious and careful.

Teachers To Plan Reading Program

SMOKY LAKE — Junior High School teachers here are going to work on a three-year reading program for grades seven, eight and nine. Mr. Kostash told the teachers that vocabulary is the main difficulty of students today in reading. With the superintendent's assistance teachers will plan a three year continuous reading program which may overcome reading difficulties encountered.

John Hatduk Is Named Assistant Postmaster

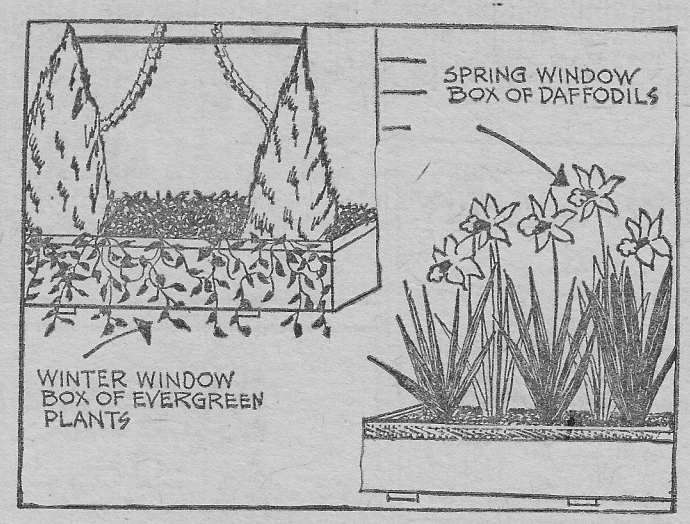
Vilna has been growing at such a rate that the postmaster could not keep up with the demands at the office. Part-time help was tried but even that was swamped with the flow of mail.

The postoffice department finally found it fit to advertise for an assistant postmaster. John Hatduk was awarded the position in a public competition and will soon take up his position.

Mr. Greckul has expressed his deep appreciation for this help because he had found it necessary to work several hours before and after his official hours just to keep abreast of the flood of mail. The town fathers may well be proud that their efforts to boost the town's population has received this tangible proof of Vilna's expansion.

The world has many people anxious to help you along, when you no longer require assistance.

Garden Graph



Winter Window Boxes

BY PLANTING tiny evergreens and ivy in the window box one may have a winter garden of great charm.

Winter window and porch boxes add to the attractiveness of the home and are especially valuable when the deciduous shrubs planted about the house are bare of foliage. These window boxes are an ornament both from the inside and out.

A simple, attractive winter window box is shown in the accompanying Garden-Graph. Spiny Greek juniper is placed at each end of the box. These junipers are densely columnar in form and slow growing. In the center of the box, between the junipers, euonymous is planted with English ivy placed so that it trails over the edge.

Use the Baltica ivy because it is very hardy.

Two needle-leaved evergreen shrubs, the Japanese yew (Taxus cuspidata) and the American arbor-vitae (Thuja Occidentalis), used as a background, with English ivy trailing over the front, can be used for window box purposes in any season and in sunshine or shade.

Shown is a gay spring window box. Bulbs, either tulips or daffodils, are planted in the box this month. The boxes are stored in the garage or deep cold frame. When the bulbs send up shoots in the spring, the boxes should be placed where the sun can reach them. When the flowers are ready to bloom, place the boxes in the windows.

4-H Club Achievement Day Exhibit Leads To Royal Winter Fair Fame

BRUDERHEIM—Myron Zacharko, 17 year old Bruderheim boy is World Oat King. His championship sample, 15 pounds of handpicked Victory Oats was first submitted in the Star 4-H Field Crops achievement day this fall, where it won first prize.

Joe Gurba, of the department of agrinulture, advised Myron to send the sample to the Royal Winter Fair in Toronto.

The first sample was eight pounds, which meant Myron had to hand-pick seven pounds for the Royal Winter Fair Exhibit.

Preparing seed for exhibition is time-consuming work. Myron's father said it took weeks to prepare the seed.

To get the 15 pound grain sample Myron had to take about 75 pounds out of the bin. It was fanned twice, then screened. And then began the hard, patience-trying task of hand-picking the kernels one by one.

After the kernels were picked they were placed in a nylon stocking and polished. The kernels were chosen for uniformily of size, plumpness and maturity, among other things.

The champion sample of grain stated last spring when Myron set out his grain plot for the 4-H club. He seeded the grain at a rate of two bushels per acre in a two-acre plot.

The grain was planted in strips about ten feet wide with a space between the rows so he could weed the crop while it was growing.

The crop was harvested with swather and combine.

Neighbors began calling in to congratulate the hard working youth.

One of the first was Alex Cholak of Lamont, Myron's 4-H club leader.

Mr. Cholak said Myron has been in the club for three years and has always been a good worker. Myron's plot this year placed first in the club competition. he said.
